"I have had this wagon twenty-two years, and during that time it cost me only $6.00 for repairs, and that was for setting two tires."

"And after twenty-two years of daily use in good and bad weather and over all kinds of roads, I will put this wagon against any new wagon of another make that you can buy today."

"Studebaker wagons are built of air-dried lumber and tested iron and steel. Even the paint and varnish are subjected to a laboratory test to insure wearing qualities."

"No wagon made is subjected to as many tests or is more carefully made than a Studebaker. You can buy them of Studebaker dealers everywhere."

"Don't listen to the dealer who wants to sell you a cheap wagon, represented to be 'just as good' as a Studebaker."

Farm wagons, trucks, dump wagons and carts, delivery wagons, buggies, surreys, depot wagons—and harness of all kinds of the same high standard as the Studebaker vehicles.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE AT EVENING TIDE.

When Your Daughter Weds.

At this time of the year when June brides never fail to be numerous, the following sensible words that appeared in one of our valued exchanges will be read with interest. The editor uses the question, "Is there a mother who does not feel a little sinking of the heart as she sees her daughter go out of her home as a bride?"

"Most mothers delude themselves in the belief that by some alchemy of fate their children will be saved from all the ills of existence—physical or mental. How much better it would be if we taught our children to look life squarely in the face, so that when troubles come they will bear them bravely."

"If your daughter is to be happy in her wedded life, she must have learned from your precept and practice the duties of a home-maker. She must be able to care for a house properly, with or without servants; she must be well versed in the arts of cooking and plain sewing—but above all, she must look at life as it is, sanely and logically."

"After you have taken your last counsel with your daughter before her marriage, you might say to her: 'From tonight I shall not interfere in your affairs, as I know that all husbands and wives make the laws of their own households. What might be right for me and your father, may not be at all practical in your case.'

"Neither is it a good idea to tell me all the little annoyances that come between you and your husband, as the retelling of them only makes them seem worse. Do not think for a moment I will not be near to help you when I am needed in any real trouble, but you must remember from now on you have elected to take up the reality of life, and if you truly love your husband and he loves you, nothing else will count in the balance."

"Your mother, my child, has done her best to prepare you for a happy marriage. My real work is finished; yours has just begun. Make me happy by carrying it on to full fruition than I have been able to carry mine, and I will feel that I have not lived in vain."

"Go my child, and joy and peace go with you."

Sing At Your Work.

At this season of the year one can learn a lesson of cheerfulness from the birds that warble their cheerful songs from morn until eve. Another lesson they both teach us is that the bird that has its nest in the small and thorny bush sings as sweetly and is as happy as the one that calls the stately oak its home. So it is with families. In the little cottage you often find the mother singing and more happy and contented than the one who dwells in the marble front. Let us learn a lesson from the birds and be cheerful in our homes, be they great or small. One wiser than us has the following lesson of the canary and inquires what is more cheerful in a home than a canary bird warbling runs and thrills of song all day long?

To be joyful and to impart his fine spirit of contentment to others seems to be the canary's chief business in life. And how he does take it! No grouching, no skimping, no hungry watching the clock for him! But head thrown back and throat ripping, he pours out his message of cheer with a real and heartiness and complete dedication in which there doesn't seem to be an element of selfishness or a particle of stingy reserve."

Why don't you, also, sing at your work?

There's a lot of value in the habit. It makes the snarls and ruffles in your own mind and soul and it is a mighty good example to others."

One audibly happy person in a household, office or workshop is often able to infect all the others, for nothing is so contagious as an emotion. It's next to impossible to stay grouched alongside a person who is singing or joking. And, unlike the one rotten apple which corrupts of all emotions is the emotion of happiness."

You could do this, too, by just taking a tip from the canary. To see the bright side, to impart joy instead of gloom, to be thoroughout a lifetime an infection center of happiness—of song have a show. You, with all the advantages of a mind and a soul ought easily to be able to beat a dumb canary if you really try."

He who can create his own happiness in the sphere in which he finds himself, has within him one of the real elements of success in business and success in winning happiness."

Act Well Your Part.

Our happiness in this life depends not so much on circumstances and surroundings as in our determined efforts to do our best in all conditions in which we are placed. Our common heritage is more or less allied to sorrows and pain, but we have within ourselves the antidote—the sunshine of the heart that will alleviate, if not remove many of our troubles. But we persistently reject the means of happiness that lie within our reach, by ignoring present small pleasures in hopes of enjoying greater ones in the future good time coming, which always keeps just ahead, and is unattainable. We cultivate little cares till they sometimes attain enormous growth by constantly dwelling on them and dolefully rehearsing them to our friends when we should do our best to rise above them. In the most difficult and trying conditions there will often be a brighter side."

On June 14 citizens of Lower East Fork, Bolts Fork, Brammer Gap and Catt, and all that section of country met and formed a good roads association, dividing the road into sections from Bolts Fork to Webbville for the purpose of putting it in good shape. ## IN MEMORY.

In loving remembrance of a devoted mother, wife and friend and a devoted Christian, we as friends and neighbors and as one who knew her in all her purity and untiring zeal for good, and for the up building of her community and especially the training the young mind in the paths of righteousness. We wish to use this means of expressing our love for one that has gone from our midst to dwell with Him that has said: I go to prepare a place for you, I will come again to receive you unto myself. Mrs. Sarah Shivel Bishop Quisenberry was born in Henry-co., Ky., September 12, 1847. She was the daughter of Samuel Elston Shivel, of Lexington and Sereida Owens Shivel of the distinguished Owens family of Kentucky, formerly of Old Virginia. At the early age of 12 years she confessed her Savior and became a member of the church of Christ at Port Royal, Ky. In 1867 she was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Gretna B. Bishop. Mr. Bishop died the year following. To this union was born one son, L. G. Bishop, of Denver Col. three and half years following his death she was married to W. C. Quisenberry, of Henry-co., to this union were born three children. Mrs. Jno. W. Kitchin, of Webbville, Mrs. L. Giles, of Jattle and Colby, who was the baby of the family and the ideal of his mother's heart. Aunt Sallie as we knew her and as all her friends knew her, had been sick for some time and in especially bad health during the past winter, yet confined to her bed only two weeks while her physician and family knew she was in a very serious condition they couldn't think but what she would get up after the pneumonia gave way they felt hopeful yet she told them from the first that she would never get well, talked with them about dying as though it was a small thing, sent messages to all she knew when friends would tell her good bye would tell them if I can go when you come back come home pointing her finger toward Sunday night May 25, Mr. Kitchin was called at 11:30 as she was very bad he came post haste. All that could be done to alleviate her suffering was done. At 2 a. m. she told Mrs. Kitchin with a beautiful smile on her face I see day breaking and two bright faces. ## A FRIEND.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Sallie Shivel Quisenberry died May 26, 1912 at her home near Webbville. Mrs. Quisenberry was married to Greenberry Bishop, and to them was born one son, L. G. Bishop. After the death of Mr. Bishop she was married to William C. Quisenberry. To this union were born three children. Mrs. Jno. W. Kitchin, Mrs. L. R. Giles and Colby. Mrs. Quisenberry had been in ill health for some time. All was done for her that loved ones could do, but God who doeth all things well released her from all suffering. Oh, how she welcomed the summons. At a very early age she accepted Christ as her Savior and she lived for him. She was loved by all who knew her, both young and old.

The funeral services were held in the church at Brammer Gap, where she was a member.

Rev. Jim Barrett, a retired Southern Methodist minister, preached.

FROM TEXAS.

As to vegetation, spontaneous and domestic, there is quite a variety of each. Most everything that is cultivated in the north can be grown in Texas and many things besides, excepting the southern grasses and clovers, they are said to burn out here. I have seen but one little patch of white clover, only about the size of a sheep skin. Alfalfa meadows will last many years properly cared for, and will make crops to four crops. We have the crab grass and lots of "harsh grass" and "iron tail." As to weeds we have four or five different kind of cactuses, among them a very prickly kind that will surely surprise a stranger before the season is over. I have a few cactuses as large as my leg at the ground. There are different kinds of gourds, one bunch or root may spread as large as a bed blanket if let alone. No poisonous or squishy-toedness. Texas dog fennel is scarce and very disagreeable to the mountain dog fennel. The cocklebur, morning glory, Jimson, etc., are the same. Wild flowers are very numerous and beautiful. Many are very aromatic. If conditions were favorable I think one could smell a bundle of wild cactuses one hundred yards or more. It smells as strong as an old tobacco barn. What cactuses are plentiful?
